Last spring, Gloria Forehand charmed audiences with her East-meets-West-inspired eveningwear during the 2015 CFW Emerging Designer Competition. Now, she returns to the runway with another stunning collection of couture gowns inspired by the film Breakfast at Tiffany's. "I want to show an updated view of Audrey Hepburn," explains the Korean-born designer, who describes her aesthetic as "historical to modern." Using a unique combination of luxurious fabrics from around the globe, including Asian silks, Brazilian leathers, and European knits, Forehand creates versatile, layered looks that are at once feminine and wearable.

Meet Gloria:

"Inspiration for my process takes a long time. After I absorb the theme for a while, I select colors and fabrics and begin to design."

"When I'm working, I listen to contemporary Christian music to keep my focus on God. He gives me the energy, strength, and wisdom to design."
